Attending and taking part in this session were the members of the Council and their accompanying delegations, except for the representatives of the Republic of Azerbaijan, the Republic of the Sudan, the Republic of Surinam, the Republic of Somalia, the Republic of Kazakhstan, the Republic of Kyrgyzstan and the Republic of Yemen.

1. The opening session was presided over by His Excellency Dr Boubakar Doukouré, Chairman of ISESCO Executive Council, in the presence of His Excellency Dr Hatem Ben Salem, Minister of Education and Training of the Tunisian Republic, President of the National Commission for Education, Science and Culture, alongside H.E. Dr Abdulaziz Othman Altwaijri, Director General of the Islamic Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (ISESCO).
2. After recitation of verses from the Holy Quran, Dr Hatem Ben Salem made an address in which he welcomed the members of the Executive Council, on behalf of the Tunisian government, wishing them full success in their proceedings. He expressed appreciation and satisfaction to H.E Dr Abdulaziz Othman Altwaijri for his cordial relations with Tunisia, and congratulated him on the accomplishments ISESCO has been achieving in all its programmes and activities. Besides, Dr Ben Salem stressed that it was a cause of pride for the Tunisian Republic to play host to the 30th Executive Council and 10th General Conference sessions. He described both events as having great significance, all the more as they coincided with the festivities marking the celebration of Kairouan as the 2009 Islamic Culture Capital. He explained that not only is this a strong testimony to the Tunisian Republic's outstanding contribution to the efforts led by ISESCO towards the joint Islamic action, but it also speaks volumes for the relevance of the core principles underlying the November 7th Change initiated by His Excellency Mr Zine El Abidine Ben Ali, President of the Tunisian Republic.

H.E the Minister added that the steady progress being achieved by ISESCO in its pursuit of the goals set forth in its successive action plans is a shining evidence of the ability of joint action, when based on firm foundations and prospective planning, to materialize major development goals, boost education, science, technology, culture, information and communication sectors, and thus build the knowledge society. Such are actually the main components of ISESCO's Three-Year Action Plan 2010-2012.

In addition, the Tunisian Education Minister commended the invaluable work carried out by ISESCO Executive Council in preparation for the 10th General Conference session, which he said will be "an outstanding session by all standards". At the close of his address, Dr Ben Salem congratulated the Executive Council members on their deep devotion to their noble duties.

3. The floor was then held by H.E. Dr Boubakar Doukouré, Chairman of the Executive Council of ISESCO. He started by expressing pleasure at holding the 30th session of the Executive Council in the Tunisian Republic, and lauded the clear-sighted vision underlying the great revival being witnessed by the Tunisian Republic under the leadership of H.E. the Tunisian President. Dr Boubakar Doukouré pointed out the key importance of the documents examined by the 30th Executive Council session (most notably the Report of the Director General on the Organization's Activities for 2008, and the Financial Report of the Director General and Closing Accounts, Report of the Audit Company and Report of the Financial Control Committee). He explained that they stand as clear testimony to the fine record of achievement registered by ISESCO in the implementation of the three-year Action Plan (2007-2009). He said that this is further evidence of the Director General's high level of performance and genuine commitment to the noble, heavy duties assigned to him. He also described the effectively transparent and rationalized financial policy followed by ISESCO as an equally important tool in expanding its message and strengthening its role in promoting dialogue, coexistence, understanding and peace far and wide. At the close of his address, Dr Doukouré said he was hopeful that the Executive Council, as part of the huge responsibilities assigned to it, would help further ISESCO's stated objectives. He also emphasized the need to step up efforts to help discharge the noble mission of ISESCO.
4. In his address, ISESCO Director General said he was pleased that the 30th session of the Executive Council took place, with generous support from H.E. Tunisian President Mr Zine El Abidine Ben Ali, on the occasion of the festivities marking the celebration of Kairouan as the Arab Region's 2009 Islamic Culture Capital.

Dr Altwaijri pointed out that the 30th Executive Council session differs from previous sessions in that it examined a major civilizational project, namely the Draft Three-Year Action Plan and Budget for the Years (2010-2012) which, he stressed, gives strong evidence that ISESCO is making a quantum leap forward. Another distinctive aspect about this session, Dr Altwaijri added, is that it was held at a decisive turn in the history of international relations. This, he said, adds to the great responsibility shouldered by ISESCO, and further accentuates the importance of joint Islamic action, inside and outside the Muslim world.

Dr Altwaijri also explained that the formidable track record made under the three-year Action Plan 2007-2009 is sufficient proof that ISESCO is heading in the right direction. He said that this has enabled ISESCO to position itself as a major reference at the regional and international levels, thus setting an inspiring example in the field of joint Islamic action. Dr Altwaijri attributed this commanding success achieved by ISESCO to the grace of Allah Almighty, and also to the support of all the Member States. He also commended the role exerted by the Executive Council in this regard.

H.E. the Director General pointed out that the 30th Executive Council session was held amidst increasing international and regional challenges to the Muslim world. He expressed his conviction that this situation could be addressed only through commitment to excellence in science and technology, and through advancing human civilization, based on high-quality education that shapes peoples' minds and souls. This, he said, is a collective, civilizational mission that should be discharged in the best level of performance possible.

At the end of his address, H.E. the Director General explained that the great work undertaken by ISESCO is an effective response to the various forms of aggression aimed at the Muslim Ummah, its religion, its culture and its civilization, and the obstacles undermining Muslim societies' stability, as well as their intellectual, cultural, and spiritual security.

5. At the beginning of the first working session, H.E. the Chairman of the Executive Council welcomed the new members of the Executive Council, namely the representatives of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan, the People's Republic of Bangladesh, the Republic of Kazakhstan, the Republic of Cameroon, the Great Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahiriya, the Islamic Republic of Mauritania and the Republic of Yemen. He also congratulated H.E Dr Ibraheem Bin Mubarak Al-Juweir, the representative of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia to the Executive Council, on his appointment as member of the Kingdom's Majlis Al Shura. Thereafter, he presented the Draft Agenda and Programme of the 30th session of the Executive Council, which were discussed and adopted.
6. The Director General then presented the Report of the Director General on ISESCO's Activities in 2008. At the beginning of his presentation, he said that the activities implemented during the reported period testify to ISESCO's compliance with the recommendations of the 9th General Conference and the 29th Executive Council sessions. He also said that those activities reflect ISESCO's observance of the constant principles of the Islamic value system, together with its commitment to serving humanity's causes and promoting world peace and security, through its strong presence in the forums dedicated to equal cultural and civilizational dialogue with the Other.

The Director General underlined that in 2008 the Organization scheduled 500 activities in the fields of education, science, culture, communication and information. Out of these, he explained, 452 educational, scientific and cultural activities were implemented, which accounts for 90% of the activities programmed, thus marking a notable increase compared with the first year of the Action Plan 2007-2009, during which 422 of the scheduled activities were carried out.

He added that the implemented activities spanned the different fields of action of the Organization, its directorates and its specialized divisions, thus totaling 145 activities in education, 137 in science and 170 in culture and communication.

He further explained that in these various educational, scientific and cultural areas, ISESCO implemented 150 national and regional workshops and training sessions in the interest of 2150 trainers, teachers, counselors, experts, administrative staff and civil society officials in the Member States and among Muslim communities outside the Muslim world. In the same vein, he said that ISESCO has conducted and participated in 143 major activities, namely international and regional specialized conferences, symposia, meetings and seminars. Among the most important of those events, he cited the 3rd Islamic Conference of Environment Ministers which the Organization held at its headquarters in Rabat, between 29 and 30 October 2008, on the theme "Towards Mitigating the Impact of Climate Change in Islamic States"; the 4th Islamic Conference of Ministers of Higher Education and Scientific Research, held in Baku, capital of Azerbaijan, over the period of 6-8 October 2008 on the theme "Bringing Change through Scientific Youth Force"; and the International Conference on Youth Issues in the Islamic World: Present and Future Challenges, held in Tunis in November 2008.

Furthermore, he stated that the Organization pursued its care for ISESCO academic chairs, particularly the university chairs on education in the values of dialogue and the culture of peace. It equally continued to award its annual prizes in the various educational, scientific and cultural fields to individuals, institutions and organizations within Member States.

With regard to the enforcement of the resolutions of the previous sessions of the Islamic Conference of Culture Ministers, the Director General said that ISESCO

During the year 2008, the Organization celebrated Alexandria as capital of Islamic culture in the Arab region, and carried out several relevant educational, scientific, cultural and media-related activities in the city. The Organization has also continued catering for Muslim communities and minorities outside the Islamic world. In this regard, it held the regular meetings of the Supreme Council for Education, Science and Culture outside the Islamic World and the meetings of the Heads of Islamic Associations and Cultural Centres in Europe, Asia and Latin America.

Furthermore, the Director General pointed out that the Organization provided 94 means of support, technical and material, and offered 62 scholarships to students from Member States and Muslim communities outside the Islamic world. It also dispatched 23 Arabic language and Islamic culture teachers to the universities and Arab Islamic educational institutions in a number of states in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

The Director General stated that, in a bid to expand cooperation and partnership with regional and international organizations, ISESCO signed 17 new agreements and protocols in 2008, which brings the number of cooperation agreements and protocols signed with international, regional, Arab and Islamic organizations and bodies to 175. He also said that ISESCO continued consolidating cooperation and partnership relations with the national commissions and competent parties in the Member States. In this regard, ISESCO held 4 training sessions for 60 staff members of the national commissions.

In addition, the Director General stated that the Organization continued benefiting from the technical capabilities and modern equipment of its digital printing unit to release its new publications which totaled 36 books and studies in 2008 and were posted on the internet in full-text format and in the Organization's three working languages.

At the end of his presentation, the Director General expressed the Organization's aspiration to realize further achievements for Member States and its keenness to go further in the promotion of its civilizational mission. He also hailed the cooperative efforts exerted by Member States, which ISESCO aspires to enhance at the moral and material levels in order to address the issues of education, science, culture and communication and contribute to consolidating the bases of social security, peace and progress in the Islamic world, as well as at the global level.

He explained that the activities, programmes and projects scheduled and implemented during the reported period were inspired by the Organization’s value system; its strategic orientations; its educational, scientific, cultural and communication strategies; and its fine record of achievement over 27 years. In this connection, he also stressed that ISESCO has been acting in full compliance with the recommendations of the Executive Council and the resolutions of the General Conference.

The Director General also stressed that such considerable achievements are attributed first to the grace of Allah, and then to the cooperative action and active role of the National Commissions for Education, Science and Culture in the Member States in carrying out the Organization's activities and programmes. He expressed satisfaction with the successful policy of international and regional cooperation adopted by the Organization in the implementation of the programmes of its three-year Action Plan for 2007-2009.

The aim is to examine their efficiency and relevance as to the needs and expectations of the Member States, as well as their interaction with the international mutations and new challenges. To this end, the General Directorate drew on various evaluation mechanisms and tools, particularly the data provided in the questionnaires addressed to the competent authorities in the Member States, wherein they included their assessment of the activities conducted by ISESCO within their respective countries. These include also the feedback provided by the participants in the questionnaires addressed to them, as well as in the reports of the benefiting and cooperating parties in the Member States or outside the Islamic world, and those drawn up by the experts having supervised the said activities. Based on this feedback, the General Directorate has noted the appreciation and satisfaction expressed by the relevant parties with regard to the policy it has been adopting and the activities it has implemented between 2007 and 2008, and over the first half of 2009.

The Director General also explained that the General Directorate has started examining those proposals in a bid to derive inspiration from them and consider ways to respond to them. This reflects the General Directorate's awareness of the importance of the said proposals and its eagerness to build on them for developing the working methods of the Organization, enhancing the content of its future action plans and achieving its objectives.

After deliberations, the Council adopted the Report of the Director General on Member States' Contributions to the Organization's Budget and on Redressing the Financial Situation of the Organization for 2008. The Council also expressed thanks and appreciation to the Director General for his efforts in intensifying contact with Member States in order to collect maximum contributions, and promote cooperation with international organizations to support the Organization's activities and programmes.

Besides, the Council called on the Member States having not yet paid up their contributions to the Organization and those in arrears to settle their contributions and arrears in the shortest possible time, in order to enable the Organization to discharge its duties. In addition, the Council called on the Director General to continue coordination and consultation with the Member States in arrears, in order to collect those arrears and agree on practical mechanisms to settle them, in accordance with the relevant decisions and resolutions of the Executive Council and General Conference. The Council also agreed to submit this report, with a recommendation for approval, to the 10th General Conference.

20. The Director General made a presentation on the Draft Action Plan and Budget for the years 2010-2012. In this regard, he explained that the draft submitted represents the first part of the Organization's action plans inspired by the Medium-Term Plan for the years 2010-2018. He also pointed out that the General Directorate paid special attention, during the preparation of the final draft, to including all amendments proposed by 29th session of the Executive Council in its discussion of the broad lines of this draft plan.

With regard to the strategic objectives of the draft plan, the Director General stated that countering the hostile campaign mounted against Islam and Muslims constitutes a constant strategic goal of the Organization's action plans. This goal goes hand in hand with the first major objective pertaining to ISESCO's priority development areas and fields of competence. It particularly encompasses stepping up the efforts of Member States as well as international organizations and non-governmental institutions with respect to sustainable development and using educational, scientific and cultural mechanisms to this end. In the same vein, he stated that the General Directorate has set four strategic sub-goals for the next three-year period. These include fostering the role of human resources in educational systems; developing training institutions and diversifying training programmes; promoting academic research and putting sustainable development at the core of its priorities; renewing cultural policies, developing cultural action mechanisms for developmental goals; and contributing to bridging the digital divide between Member States and developed countries.

Moreover, the Director General pointed out that with regard to the preparation of the coming action plan, the General Directorate has deemed it judicious to maintain the general structure of the Action Plan 2007-2009, considering the clear vision mirrored by its three chapters pertaining to the General Policy, Activities and Support Programmes, and Joint Expenditures, together with their related fields of action, axes, as well as activities, programmes and projects featuring special objectives, as well as practical input and implementation mechanisms.

Furthermore, the Director General said that the forthcoming plan will seek to pursue action with a view to promoting the achievements made in some fields of the Action Plan 2007-2009. It will also seek to put into action new items of the Medium-Term Action Plan for the years 2010-2018. These mainly focus on developing Member States' educational systems and structures, the express aim being to keep abreast of relevant international developments and combat all forms of illiteracy; boost investment in cultural projects; foster cultural diversity, dialogue of cultures and alliance of civilizations; develop Member States' capacities in sustainable development-related scientific research, particularly in agriculture, water resources management, protection of the environment, innovation in the fields of renewable energy and poverty alleviation; and bridge the digital divide between developing and developed countries.

The Director General equally emphasized the General Directorate's keenness on drawing benefit from the working tools which have proved to be efficient in achieving the sought objectives. Such tools include the coordination with the national commissions and competent parties in Member States; partnership with regional and international organizations, ISESCO Regional Offices and Delegations; the working tools of the Organization's new headquarters, and the financial resources allocated for the Action Plan 2010-2012.

21. During the discussions on the Draft Three-Year Action Plan and Budget for the years 2010-2012, the Council members' observations focused on what follows:

- To call on ISESCO to further cooperation, under its new action plan, with specialized regional training centres in the Member States to implement its training activities as falls within the scope of those centres, the aim being to help develop the action of those centres and extend their national and regional outreach.
- To include performance indicators in the general description of the plan's programmes, in order to facilitate their evaluation.
- To identify a set of educational, scientific, cultural and communication activities for implementation in Doha, on the occasion of its selection as the 2010 Arab Culture Capital.
- To include programmes to integrate rational consumption principles in school manuals in a bid to sensitize the youth to Islamic values.
- To call for using information technologies in establishing communication networks among educational, scientific and cultural institutions in the Member States, the aim being to consolidate cooperation and exchange of expertise.
- To involve civil society institutions operating in ISESCO's areas of competence in the activities implemented by the Organization, the aim being to enhance their role in achieving sustainable development for Muslim societies.

- To stress the necessity to use information and communication technologies in developing the educational system, distance learning, scientific and technical education, adult education, literacy, particularly among women in rural areas, and preserving cultural identity and Islamic architectural landmarks.
 - To devote further activities to categories with special needs, particularly the handicapped, and facilitate their access to ISESCO's activities and programmes.
 - To give greater care to the protection of children and youth from the immoral content of the internet and modern communication media.
 - To call for giving further attention to school dropout, in addition to devising training programmes and organizing awareness-raising meetings to help the competent parties curb this phenomenon.
 - To foster the role of ISESCO Center for Promotion of Scientific Research in coordinating and intensifying cooperation among research centres in Member States.
 - To identify and benefit from the experiences of Member States in the Organization's fields of competence to improve the implementation mechanisms of ISESCO's activities and enforcing its action plan.
 - To focus, in the activities geared to the staff of national commissions, on training in the use of communication techniques to develop their capacities and revitalize their role in publicizing ISESCO's efforts.
- 22. After deliberations, the Council adopted the Draft Three-Year Action Plan and Budget for the Years 2010-2012, and approved its related budget standing at US$ 41,100,453, while taking into account the observations and suggestions of its members, together with the priorities and needs of Member States during implementation. The Council congratulated the Director General on his efforts in laying the groundwork for the draft Action Plan and Budget, in cooperation with the Executive Council. It also invited the Member States to settle their full contributions under this Plan, and called on the Director General to carry on his efforts to secure extra-budgetary resources to implement the largest part possible of the Action Plan for the Years 2010-2012.

The Council commended the methodology adopted by the General Directorate which is based on an integrated, interdisciplinary, innovative and strategic vision.

The Council invited the Director General to implement the Action Plan, with particular emphasis laid on specialized conferences, major projects, field programmes and quality activities, in cooperation with the specialized institutions as well as national and regional centers in the Member States, and agreed on the proposal to exempt the State of Palestine, the Islamic Republic of Afghanistan and the Republic of Somalia from their contributions under the Three-Year Action Plan and Budget for the Years 2010-2012.

It equally agreed to submit the Draft Three-Year Action Plan and Budget for the Years 2010-2012, with a recommendation for approval, to the 10th General Conference.

- 23. In appreciation of the considerable efforts exerted by ISESCO Director General, Dr Abdulaziz Othman Altwaijri, and having reviewed the outstanding achievements made by the Organization with the Grace of Allah and thanks to the constant efforts and sustained endeavours exerted by the Director General with regard to the smooth implementation of programmes and activities, the sound management of the General Directorate, the innovation and development in the successive action plans which he supervised the elaboration or the implementation thereof, the establishment of a large cooperation and partnership network with regional and international organizations, and the assertion of the Organization's presence in international conferences and forums with a view to conveying the Islamic civilizational message to the international community, redressing misconceptions about Islam and Muslims, and supporting Muslim communities and minorities all around the world, the Council unanimously invited the General Conference to re-elect, in its Tenth Session, H.E. 25. Eventually, the Council decided to hold its 31st session in the Organization's permanent headquarters, in Rabat, Kingdom of Morocco, in July 2010.
26. At the closing session, H.E Dr Abdulaziz Othman Altwaijri held the floor and explained that the decisions adopted by the 30th session of the Executive Council mark the beginning of a new stage in the action led by the Organization, thus consolidating the sound groundwork of the General Conference which will approve them. His Excellency expressed his satisfaction at the successful outcome of the current Council's session, stressing that he and the Council members are setting store by the General Conference to set a road map for the Organization in its endeavor to fulfill more goals and objectives. In the same vein, Dr Altwaijri affirmed to the Council members that the Organization is gaining more strength thanks to their support and thanks to the trust placed in it by the Member States. At the end, he thanked the Executive Council members for the trust they place in him and for having recommended to the 10th General Conference to re-elect him as Director General of ISESCO for two consecutive terms of office.
